SIXTH ECONOMIC CENSUS

INTRODUCTION

Reliable and timely database is the basic necessity for any sound and systematic planning. Moreover, the availability of detailed information, at macro level is the key to effective planning. Though a fairly adequate system of agricultural statistics has already been developed in the country but such information system has not yet been built up for the non-agricultural sector. While statistics in respect of organized segments of the non-agricultural economy are being collected more or less regularly. It is not so in regard to its unorganized sector, although this sector assumes greater importance due to its significant contribution towards gross domestic product as also in generation of employment in developing economy. To bridge the gap by providing basic data on non-agricultural sector and also providing frame for the follow up survey on different section of the economy, a scheme of Economic Census and Surveys was launched by Central Statistical Organization, Government of India in the year 1976. Since then, the Central Statistical Organization has conducted Economic Census in the year 1977, 1980, 1990 1998, 2005 and 2013.

Economic Census is the complete count of all entrepreneurial units located within the geographical boundaries of the country, involved in any economic activities of either agricultural (excluding crop production and plantation) or non-agricultural sector of the Economy, engaged in production and/or distribution of goods and/or services not for the sole purpose of own consumption.

The objective of the conduct of Economic Census is to provide basic information viz. number of enterprises by type of activity of ownership and by type of social group for planning purpose and to frame for follow-up surveys which are meant for collecting detailed information about the enterprise.

Previous Economic Census:

The first coordinated approach to fill these vital data gaps was made by the Central Statistical Organisation (CSO), Government of India by launching a plan scheme 'Economic Census and Surveys' in 1976. The scheme envisaged organising countrywide census of all economic activities (excluding those engaged in crop production and plantation) followed by detailed sample surveys of unorganised segments of different sectors on non-agricultural economy in a phased manner during the intervening period of two successive economic censuses. The basic purpose of conducting the economic census was to prepare a frame while follow up surveys intended to collect more detailed sector specific information between two economic censuses. In view of the rapid changes that occur in the unorganised sectors of non-agricultural economy due to high mobility or morbidity of smaller units and also on account of births of new units, the scheme envisaged conducting the economic census periodically in order to update the frame from time to time.

First Economic Census (1977)

The first economic census was conducted throughout the country, except Lakshadweep, during 1977 in collaboration with the Directorate of Economics & Statistics (DES) in the States/Union Territories (UT). The coverage was restricted to only non-agricultural establishments employing at least one hired worker on a fairly regular basis. Data on items such as description of activity, number of persons usually working, type of ownership etc. were collected.

Second Economic Census (1980)

The second economic census was conducted in 1980 along with the house-listing operations of 1981 Population Census. This was done with a view to economies resources, manpower, time and money. The scope and coverage was enlarged. This time all establishments engaged in economic activities (both agricultural and non-agricultural whether employing any hired worker or not) were covered, except those engaged in crop production and plantation. All States/UTs were covered with the sole exception of Assam, where population census, 1981 was not conducted. The information on location of establishment, description of economic activity carried on, nature of operation, type of ownership, social group of owner, use of power/fuel, total number of workers usually engaged with its hired component and break-up of male and female workers was collected. The items, on which information was collected in second economic census, were more or less the same as those collected in the first economic census. However, based on experience gained in the first economic census certain items viz. years of activity, value of annual output/turnover/receipt, mixed activity or not, registered/ licensed/recognised and act or authority, if registered were dropped.

Third Economic Census (1990)

The third economic census scheduled for 1986 could not be carried out due to resource constraints, which was synchronized with the house listing operations of the Population Census 1991 on the same pattern of EC 1980. The purpose of synchronizing it with house listing operation was to minimize the cost and conduct the fieldwork more conveniently and effectively. The coverage was similar to that of

SIXTH ECONOMIC CENSUS

EC 1980. All States/UTs except Jammu & Kashmir, where population census 1991 was not undertaken, were covered.

Fourth Economic Census (1998)

With a view to meeting the demand of various user departments for the data on unorganised sectors of the economy and considering the nature of large number of small units which are subjected to high rates of mobility and mortality, it was felt that the economic census must be brought back to its quinquennial nature so that an up-to-date and complete frame can be made available once in five years for conducting the follow up surveys. It was also felt necessary to assess the impact of economic liberalisation process on entrepreneurial activities of the country and to monitor the sectoral changes, particularly the emergence of the service sector. Keeping these aspects in view, fourth economic census was planned during 1996. But due to severe budgetary constraints the scheme could be launched in only in 1998.

Fifth Economic Census (2005)

Scope and coverage:

The last Economic Census conducted in 1998 could not capture the impact of economic reforms partially, as the process of reforms was in initial stages at that point of time. It is felt that the structural and compositional changes in the economy have been more rapid in the recent years. The Government of India, therefore, decided to conduct the Fifth Economic Census.

The Central Statistical organization, GOI, conducted the Fifth Economic Census 2005 in the country with collaboration of Directorate of Economic & Statistics of the States. In the Fifth Economic Census a complete enumeration of all agricultural (except crop production & plantation) and non-agricultural entrepreneurial activities was carried out. The field operation of Fifth EC was conducted during 16th, May to 15th June 2005 in the State. The information for each establishment was collected on its location, description of activity, nature of operation, type of ownership, social group of owner, power/fuel used for the activity, duration of operation, registration agency, source of finance along with the employed persons including wages workers. First time address slip was also canvassed for the establishment that has 10 or more workers.
